Zoner Software releases the new Zoner Photo Studio 12

(Brno, Czech Republic, November 19, 2009)—Zoner Software, the innovative software company and developer of graphics software, has released the new version of its Zoner Photo Studio photo management, editing and sharing software for Windows.

For more than 15 years, Zoner Software has designed software especially for avid photographers, and the company's development team leverages user input for each new version. “Photographers want a fast, efficient product that helps them get the most out of their photos. They want an all-in-one solution. Most photographers can't afford to waste time going from one program to manage their photos, another for panoramas, another for Web sharing... and so on until they're exhausted and out of time. That is why Zoner Photo Studio has all these features built in,” said Pavel Minar, Managing Director of Zoner Software.

The latest version introduces new and more efficient ways to manage, edit and especially share photos. The module for RAW files has seen a complete overhaul. The new modular interface for processing RAW files looks great and works even better, and supports queueing for easy work with large batches of files. Settings for processing each file in queue can be fine-tuned until the moment the queue is processed. For easier work with large photo archives, the new version introduces a Catalog view—virtual folders that automatically organize pictures by timeline, no matter where they are on disk.

Users who need to create photos from documents with pictures will love the new tools for acquiring pictures from PDFs, and JPEGs from any file. The new version adds into its palette of creative tools a Droste Effect tool and vastly improved Panoramas. And underlying it all, the new version brings an improved processing core and enhanced algorithms so users can search faster and get more out of their multi-core computers.

Zoner Photo Studio is designed to satisfy a wide range of users – from amateur photographers, to semi-professionals and professionals; Zoner Photo Studio is even great for organizations. The product is available in two versions:

Zoner Photo Studio 12 Home is handy for point-and-shoot photographers looking for one-click editing features, and flexibility for creatively sharing photos, as well as creating calendars, panoramas and other presentation formats.

Zoner Photo Studio 12 Professional offers advanced photographers and avid hobbyists a wide selection of features designed with their workflows in mind, covering everything from organizing and editing, to publishing.

Zoner Photo Studio 12 is available as a free 30-day trial at www.zoner.com
